

OPEN AND MINIMAL STRATEGIES FOR TEI ENCODING AND PUBLISHING

Date:	September 29 th , 2026, 9 a.m. - 1 p.m.
Location:	Seminarraum 8, Jakobi-Passage, Kröpelin Str. 57
Lecturer:	Dr. Gimena del Rio Riande
Number of participants:	20-50
Language:	English
Target audience:	Professors, research associates, and students

Course description: The workshop will teach students basic TEI markup encoding using open source software like VS Code. Students will also learn basic steps for publishing annotated and TEI encoded texts in static websites using GitHub repositories, GitHub Pages and Jekyll sites.

Topics:

- TEI encoding
- Open Source Software
- Static Sites

Information about the lecturer

Gimena del Rio Riande is a Senior Researcher at the Instituto de Investigaciones Bibliográficas y Crítica Textual (IIBICRIT-CONICET, Argentina) and Professor at Universidad del Salvador (USAL). She holds a MA and PhD in Romance Philology (Universidad Complutense de Madrid). Her main academic interests deal with Digital Humanities, Digital Scholarly Edition, Scholarly Communication, and Open Research Practices in the Humanities. She is the director of the Laboratorio de Humanidades Digitales HD LAB (IIBICRIT-CONICET) and the Postgraduate Certificate Diplomatura en Humanidades Digitales (UCES). She is one of the DOAJ (Directory of Open Access Journals) Ambassadors for Latin America, co-director of the Revista de Humanidades Digitales (RHD), president of the Asociación Argentina de Humanidades Digitales (AAHD), member of the board of directors at the Text Encoding Initiative Consortium.